

Risk Management in the Public Sector, European Seminar, 31st January – 1st February 2013, Berlin

Submitted on 18 Jan 2013 by

Risk Management is not a choice. Professionalised risk management forces organisations to deal with risks and enhances communication with all involved stakeholders. The use of risk management tools enables public authorities to make better decisions based on calculated risks and increases the focus on accountability.

At this European seminar participants will learn from the first-hand experiences of leading experts from the:

- Central Audit Service, Ministry of Finance, the Netherlands
- General Inspection of Finances, Ministry of Finance, France
- Dutch Tax and Customs Administration, Ministry of Finance, the Netherlands
- Faculty of Management, City University London, UK

Among your benefits from participating:

- Increase the overall benefit of audits by adding reliable risk management strategies.
- Assess and monitor risks efficiently with benchmark risk management tools.
- Know how to handle, report and mitigate existing risks.
- Train your newly acquired risk management techniques in a special workshop.

Please find more detailed information about the event as well as the registration form in the programme of this seminar on Risk Management in the Public Sector:
