

OGD Workshop was held by Greek Ministry of Administrative Reform and eGov

Submitted on 07 Feb 2014 by Charalambos Bratsas

On the context of developing of the National Action Plan for Open Governance 2014, the Ministry of Administrative Reform and eGovernment organized the EKKDA workshop on "Open Government - Open Data: A Challenge for Development" on Thursday, 30th of January. The opening of the workshop was opened by Minister of Administrative Reform and e-Governance, Mr. Kyriakos Mitsotakis, and Deputy Minister of Administrative Reform and e-Government, Dr Evi Christofilopoulou sent the introductory speech presenting the purpose and project goals.

The workshop approached the policies and possibilities of open access to public information and the exploitation of applications for development. During the workshop a parallel discussion was carried out in round tables in the following sections: a. Economy and Commerce, b. Geospatial Information Infrastructure, c. Health and d. Culture and Tourism. In the event has been attended Secretaries General and Presidents of agencies, representatives of public bodies and local authorities as well as experts from the EU, but also the academic and research community.

The event is now available in video streaming (in Greek) via the link below: <http://www.ekdd.gr/ekdda/index.php/gr/webtv>