 Company:	Geoportal Malopolski
 Sector:	Environment
 Product / service:	Platform
 Type of data:	Geospatial and Environmental data
 Origin:	Poland

Description

The GeoPortal is a platform that provides various maps that show geographical data relevant to citizens and tourists. This includes maps of hunting routes, cultural heritage sites, nature conservation areas, sports and recreation locations, bicycle routes, motorways, water ways, etc. The portal also provides information related to environmental indicators such as noise, pollution, and soil and agriculture maps.

Benefits

The GeoPortal combines information from numerous sources at one central location and visualises this information, making it easy to digest. Furthermore, it provides access to information that would otherwise be difficult to obtain.

How open data is used

Geospatial and Environmental information are provided by the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development of Poland for anyone to access and re-use. In addition, the source-code that creates a map can be accessed and obtained, in HTML view.
