Description

Swisscom Open Data provides developers with anonymous data from its areas of activity, to promote innovation. The website contains 39 datasets from four areas – communication, mobility, network, and plants. Via the use of filters, such as year and topic, users can find the datasets of interest.

Benefits

The collected data by Swisscom can further be used by developers to drive digitalisation and to stimulate new innovations.

How open data is used

Swisscom collects data from its areas of activity, prepares it and makes it available via their open data platform.
