Description

TheyWorkForYou is a parliamentary monitoring website that aims to make it easier for UK citizens to understand what is going on in the Parliament. The website uses data from official parliamentary sources and presents the data in a more accessible version. For example, the website offers features that make it easy for citizens to find out who represents them, how their representatives voted and what they have said in debates.

Benefits

-  The website makes it easy to understand what goes on in the Parliament and supports accountability of UK politicians.

How open data is used

TheyWorkForYou uses open data from Hansard reports (transcripts from Parliamentary debates) and aggregates them with other open data, such as elections results, voting records, current and past members of both the House of Commons and the House of Lords, their affiliations, government and opposition positions, constituencies, claimed expenses and where to find additional information.
